英文原文

In 1936 the colossal Hindenburg made 17 Atlantic round trips, a marvel of luxury and glamour. Its amenities included a lounge and, that year, a grand piano. An American embargo on helium export had left the ship relying on hydrogen. Because that gas was combustible, smokers sat behind an airlock with one electric lighter.

The airship left Frankfurt on 3 May 1937. Hours behind its timetable, it met thunderstorms at Lakehurst and circled for over an hour before its descent towards the mooring mast. At about 7:25 pm on 6 May, flames appeared near the stern. The inferno incinerated the ship in about half a minute, leaving a crumpled frame.

Of the 97 aboard, 62 survived, a proportion close to two-thirds, while a minority of 35 died, as did one man on the ground. A 14-year-old cabin boy was drenched by a deluge from a burst water tank, and the soaking saved him. He dropped through a hatch and scrambled clear, escaping only narrowly.

Newsreel cameras and photographers caught the disaster. A radio correspondent's eyewitness commentary was not live; audiences heard it the next day. The cause has not been definitively established, but static electricity igniting leaking hydrogen is the leading explanation. A theory blaming the doped fabric has been rejected.

The 1933 crash of USS Akron killed 73 yet won less notoriety. The filmed fire left a fateful image that abruptly wrecked confidence. As public perception soured, Graf Zeppelin was withdrawn, later scrapped, and a glamorous epoch of aviation closed. The doomed airship's first journey to North America had begun on 6 May 1936, exactly a year before the fire.

中文译文

1936年，庞大的兴登堡号完成17次跨大西洋往返，堪称奢华而迷人的奇观。艇内设有休息厅，那一年还配过一架三角钢琴。由于美国禁止出口氦气，飞艇只能依靠氢气升空。氢气易燃，吸烟者只能待在气闸隔开的区域，共用一个电点烟器。

1937年5月3日，飞艇离开法兰克福。它抵达莱克赫斯特时已晚点数小时，又遇上雷暴，盘旋一个多小时后才开始向系留塔下降。5月6日晚约7点25分，尾部附近出现火焰。大火在约半分钟内焚毁飞艇，只留下一副扭曲的骨架。

艇上97人中，62人生还，接近三分之二；35人遇难，地面另有一名男子死亡。一名14岁的艇上服务生被破裂水箱涌出的水浇透，这一身湿水救了他。他从舱口落下，连滚带爬逃到安全处，险些未能脱身。

新闻纪录片摄像机和摄影师拍下了灾难。电台记者的现场目击解说并非直播，听众到第二天才听到。起火原因至今没有定论，主要解释是静电点燃泄漏的氢气。把起火归咎于蒙皮织物涂层的说法已被否定。

1933年阿克伦号失事造成73人死亡，却没有那么广为人知。被拍下的大火留下了一幅影响深远的画面，骤然摧毁公众信心。随着公众看法恶化，格拉夫·齐柏林号退出运营，后来被拆解，航空史上一个充满魅力的时代就此落幕。兴登堡号首次飞往北美的航程始于1936年5月6日，恰好是失火前整整一年。
